

Do not weaken the telemarketer do not call laws. To do so would be a blatant favoring of big business over the rights of an individuals right to privacy. Telemarketer calls are invasive and annoying, and even a bit scary, i.e. knowing that these people have constant access to our personal lives. If anything you should be passing laws strengthening an individuals ability to keep telemarketer calls out of our lives.